

NOTES ON EDUCATION.

E. H. LINDEL, M. D., of Norwich, Conn., recently read a paper before the Connecticut Homeopathic Society, in which he spoke of the many dangers to the eyesight which school children constantly encounter. In the course of this paper the following significant passage occurs: "In 1879 I had the opportunity of examining 700 school children between the ages of seven and eighteen years. Some of the results of my examination may be surprising to those whose attention has not been especially directed to the subject. Only 60,71 per cent had normal vision. I found eighty-seven cases of myopia out of the 700 children; the ratio of myopia to the ages of the scholars was especially noteworthy. The especial causes of its development and progress are close application, poor print, and poor light. What are the remedies? In the first place the school-rooms should be arranged so that there shall be at least thirty square inches of window-space to each square foot of floor space. The windows should be one side. The scholars should not face the light. The desks should be placed to the right of the scholar, and the top should be sloping, so that the books can be placed as to be easily read while the scholars sit in an erect position. Rectangular drawing on paper surfaces is especially injurious, and the books should be printed on good paper with large, clear type."

The Albuquerque Indian school established by the United States Government is in a flourishing condition, but is much crowded, and needs more accommodations. When the proposed new buildings are completed, there will probably be 300 pupils enrolled in the school. These pupils come mainly from the Pueblos of New Mexico, a semi-civilized race. There are in this tribe about 2,500 children of school age, who live within easy access of Albuquerque. There is a great desire among these Indians to have their children educated.

The Toronto Globe recently sent out a circular to prominent educators in Canada, requesting them to give their views on the question of the higher education of women. The answers it received show that all whose opinions were asked were in favor of increasing the present facilities for the education of women. But there is a difference of opinion as to the means to be employed. Some advocate the establishment of separate colleges for young women, others the co-education of young men and young women in the colleges already established.
